

Jamie A. Cochran, AICP, is President of J. Cochran & Co., LLC, a woman-owned business based in Atlanta. She has over 28 years of experience with community and transportation planning initiatives that blend land use and transportation considerations. Between 1989 and 1992, she managed the FDOT's District IV Program Management Office working with metropolitan and rural planning officials in selecting and programming transportation projects for its Five-Year Work Program for SE Florida. She holds a Bachelor's degree in Housing with a Certificate in Urban Planning from Florida State University and a Master's degree in Public Administration from the Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University. Most recently, in conjunction with HNTB Corporation, she has conducted research on how various metropolitan areas make transportation investment decisions, including their use of project selection criteria. She also serves as a part-time instructor in Georgia Tech's City and Regional Planning Program.